

Comment of Where is China going

In Chinese officialdom, " if all officials above the division level are shot, there must be wronged, but if Let go of a official and kill next one, there must be have some leakages ".

This statement has long been handed down in the society, and has been widely resonated by the public.

This is a severe problem accumulated by Chinese officialdom over the years. This problem has not been solved, but it has not been intensified. The officials are also watching and waiting for the change in the current situation.

In the Hu Wen era, "government orders do not leave Zhongnanhai", and it is difficult to say much substantive improvement in politics now.

Now the state media has been emphasizing "maintenance". Generally speaking, the more emphasis is placed, the less there is. From this point of view, the lack of government orders is still a big problem.

No external factor can shake China, and China's future depends on China's future officialdom. "Do not control corruption is to wait for death, control corruption is to seek death", "Cannot punish the majority" is really difficult! It takes determination and wisdom.

A few years ago, the United States expressed its friendliness to China, which some said was the biggest mistake of the United States. In fact, this is not wrong, it should be said that this is a strategic choice, Just didn't expect that, the consequences would become so severe for America. If the United States had adopted the policy of suppressing China similar to the way right now , China would have been very sad, but China has gone through so many hardships along the way, and it will not be easy to crush China. It is protracted and variable. On the other hand, the United States suppressing China will put the United States on the opposite side of China, the influence of the American ideology on China will be greatly weakened, and the final outcome is difficult to control and expect, which is what the United States does not want to see.

So the United States chose the color revolution that put its hopes on China. This choice is completely in line with China's national conditions at that time, hit the key of China's life, The United States to China is conducive to deep penetration and influence China, be twice as much the result with half the effort and once and for all, be impelled to speak this to be a very attractive strategic choice. In fact, it is very effective. The American model worshipped by the Chinese people, which is only half a step away from the success of the Soviet model.

"The bread will have, the cream will have", that kind of difficult years have survived by the Soviet , but now the collapse of the Soviet Union, the Bolsheviks collapsed, the surface of many reasons, the real reason is that the backbone of the country is rotten, lost the people, the Soviet Communist Party is like a "heart rotten" apple abandoned by the people.

In fact, China may be worse than the Soviet Union, the overall official corruption, it is evident to anyone, and more and more serious; the common people ignore the Communist party, national leaders are politically weak, let the corruption spread, there is no any political success

China's "color revolution" is short of a trigger like the "Tiananmen Incident" only.

In that case, it is a miracle that China could still have a figure like Xi Jinping.

The US not only failed to get its wish, but gave China a chance to breathe in its development. It not only was the situation reversed, and it is unstoppable, it was unexpected to everyone and the Americans.

That is what God means

However, now the Communist Party of China is honored because of a person , the Communist Party is only because of power, the people have no respect, just fear, far from "faith".Although the Communists also hold the "oath" ceremony from time to time, it is just a show, objectively speaking, it is no better than Christianity, Catholicism. Hearing see those believers to the doctrine is from the heart, in contrast, there are several communists are true belief in communism, respect oath, in their mind, the Communist Party is only a single-plank bridge to be an official, a ladder that can be continuously climbed up, in the end, the vast majority of communists is for their own interests.

Attach oneself to the Party is for being promoted, It's not easy now to attach oneself to the Party, like advancement, there is a quota limit, also have to rely on pull relations, through the back door, bribery.

There is no interest attempt, which is the fundamental difference between the believers and the Communists; "faith" is the fundamental difference between the old and new Communists.

The foundation is not solid, and the earth is shaking.

Officialdom, the soil of corruption.

Therefore, the possibility of another inversion still exists, and the future of China depends on the change of officialdom.

China's national destiny is dominated by officialdom. What would China do if such a host of corrupt officials voted democratically?

The deep penetration and widespread spread of corrupt officialdom, this is the reality of China, how to fundamentally change the reality in the reality of China, By the people, after the Cultural Revolution, it is not difficult to imagine the consequences, so the only possibility is to hope for "heroes in troubled times".

Heroes emerge in troubled times, China needs "heroes in troubled times", and now China needs centralized autocracy.

It was only after the victory of the Civil War that Washington delegated its power to establish democracy.

"Rich is only three generations", and China can only enjoy lasting peace and stability under the democratic system, but this is later, not at present.